Princess Anne asked to be a passenger in the Meridian Shuttle when she visited the council's Digital Enterprise Greenwich at Mitre Passage on the Greenwich Peninsula last Thursday (April 16).

The borough's growing reputation as a 'Smart City' has helped it be selected as a trial site for one of three projects chosen by the government to test automated

Erith and Thamesmead polling cards to be issued by Bexley Council

Residents living in the Erith and Thamesmead Parliamentary constituency will receive their polling cards from Bexley Council. They are responsible for sending out poll cards to all registered electors.

This is the case whether you are a resident in the London Borough of Bexley or the Royal Borough of Greenwich.

Polling cards for the Erith and Thamesmead parliamentary constituency will include the words "London Borough of Bexley" but this just means that Bexley Council has issued them.

This will not affect your right to vote and your vote will be counted as normal. Please also remember that so long as you are registered to vote, you do not need to take your polling card to your polling station in order to vote. Simply turn up and provide your name and address when asked by staff at the polling station.

● Any resident wishing to confirm their polling station can check the details at www.royalgreenwich.gov.uk/findpollingstation

Still time to apply for a proxy vote

THE DEADLINE to register to vote is now passed but people who will be away on polling day or can't make it to a polling station can still apply to vote by proxy. Applications must be made by 5pm on Tuesday April 28.

People who have a medical emergency or are called away on business, or for work reasons after the proxy deadline can apply for an emergency proxy until 5pm on polling day. To get application forms for proxy votes visit www.royalgreenwich.gov.uk/elections. The deadline to make an application for a postal vote closed at 5pm on April 21. To vote in the Parliamentary elections you must be 18 on polling day and be a British, Irish or Commonwealth citizen.

Arguments for judicial review over Greenwich Time ruling has some merits

THE arguments which Greenwich Council set out for going to judicial review have some merit, and it is, I suppose, commendable that matters such as planning applications and so on are communicated borough wide, although how many people bother to read them is debatable.

It is also to be regretted that neither the News Shopper nor The Mercury are generally available unless hunted down in a supermarket or paid for.

It seems to me the RBG would have a much better case if GT returned to the lively paper it used to be before it became a propaganda puff for the achievements of the Council. There was a time when contrary views on matters of local importance were debated in its pages and when matters other than the glorification of certain Councillors occupied editorial space.

Unless and until that happens the council's case will remain weak. Indeed I'm wondering if this letter will be published as it does not wholeheartedly support the council's position.

Jane Lawson, Charlton

I AM appalled that our council is having to challenge government policy in order to retain the free weekly information service they provide to residents in the form of your colourful newspaper, Greenwich Time. We, the electorate vote for our councillors. They live and work among us and anyone who disapproves of their decisions can easily tell them so. Many of us are content that the present councillors have maintained our essential services, whilst keeping our community charge stable over six years. However, we can vote them in or out at the next council elections. That is local democracy. Why does a national minority government claim the right to interfere with our freedom, to be kept fully and frequently informed, as cheaply as possible? This is an issue of plain logic and basic democratic rights. Our so-called local papers cover local issues in a different way. They do a different job and thus are not comparable. Neither are they freely and easily available in every area. So good luck with the judicial review and long live Greenwich Time.

Go aboard a Royal Navy warship

by Dick Townsend-Smith

ONE of the Royal Navy's most modern warships will be moored in the River Thames at Greenwich this weekend, and local people have the chance to go on board, meet the crew, and have a look round.

HMS Defender is an air defence destroyer equipped with the cutting-edge Sea Viper anti-air missile system and a suite of highly sophisticated sensors. Its role is to protect UK and coalition forces at sea, on the land and in the air. HMS Defender can operate anywhere in the world, in a wide variety of roles. Her two sea boats and the ability to launch a helicopter extend her reach by hundreds of miles and suit a range of tasks, including supporting aid and disaster relief operations where the ship's 190 sailors and Royal Marines help provide stability, deliver aid and save lives.

Visitors will be able to hear all about life on board. It is part of a special naval weekend taking place in the grounds of the Old Royal Naval College in King William Walk. Attractions include Royal Marine offshore raiding craft, special editions of Land Rover's Defender model – which has operational links with HMS Defender – and a special information vehicle giving details about careers in the Royal Navy. Although tickets for visits to the ship need to be booked in advance online, the Old Royal Naval College attractions are open to all members of the public.

"The main attraction will be HMS Defender and the opportunity to go on board," said a Royal Navy spokesman. "We are limiting it to ticket holders because of the London Marathon and runners will be going past near where she is moored. We have delayed the start of Sunday's visits until after the Marathon has gone past. Members of the ship's company will be on board and on shore, and there are also all the attractions of the ORNC itself. The visit is an opportunity to build up and reinvigorate the links between the Royal Navy and Greenwich's maritime past."

● Free tickets are available for a visit aboard on Saturday and Sunday, April 25 and 26. They are available only by going online and booking on the website at www.hmsdefendertickets.eventbrite.co.uk

RELAUNCH EVENT: supporters including the Greenwich Mayor and police chief at the Polthorne Hall event

Brave mum launches counselling service for parents of murder victims

Support through the greatest loss

by Dick Townsend-Smith

PLUMSTEAD mum Lynne Booker, whose son Terry, 19, died in a knife attack 15 years ago, has re-launched the support group she began for other bereaved parents.

FONDLY REMEMBERED: Lynne with a campaign poster featuring her son Terry

She put the Terry Booker Foundation on hold four years ago because of ill-health. But she has now got it going again, with a launch event last Tuesday (April 14) at the Polthorne Hall in Polthorne Grove, Plumstead.

Terry's killer, 24-year-old Terry Lowe, was convicted of murder in 2001 and given a 10-year prison sentence.

Along with supporters and other parents whose children have been murdered, guests included the Mayor of Royal Greenwich, Cllr Mick Hayes, and the borough's police chief, Chief Supt Helen Milichap.

Lynne said: "I wanted to relaunch it because I had a fire in my belly to do it. I wasn't put off by not having any funding. I just thought 'I'm ready, and I'll fund it myself if I have to'.

"I want other bereaved parents to be aware that we are here for them, and I want to get the word out that there is support. People can come along, have a coffee, and share the pain they feel. A lot of people don't want to speak to you, and it can make you feel very isolated. We want people to support us, and not ignore us when we lose someone in the family."

Chief Supt Milichap told guests: "I cannot begin to understand what parents go through when they lose a child. The police have to be involved when a child dies, and what Lynne is doing is so important and I fully support it."

The foundation provides a drop-in service at the Polthorne Hall and meets every other Tuesday. It also offers counselling and life-coaching. A fun day to raise funds is being planned for June 7 at the Hope and Anchor in Bellegrove Road, Welling.

● More information about the foundation's work is available from Lynne by calling 07828 030195.

Cash boost for METRO charity

Counselling service to benefit

MAKING FRIENDS: young people introduce themselves at a youth group event

by Dan Stephens

THE work of an invaluable mental health service based in the royal borough has been boosted by a massive grant.

The METRO Centre, received nearly £120,000 from the City of London Corporation's charity, City Bridge Trust, to boost its London-wide mental health programme for Lesbian, Gay, Bisexual, Transgender and Questioning (LGBTQ) young people.

METRO runs community and youth services and is one of London's few specialist providers of emotional and mental health support to the LGBTQ community.

It promotes health, wellbeing, equality and participation through one-to-one counselling, group therapy and assessment, and referral services.

The charity faces increased demand for mental health services and its Youth Chances research found that 44 per cent of LGBTQ young people have contemplated suicide, while 52 per cent have self-harmed and 42 per cent sought treatment for anxiety or depression.

Dr Greg Ussher, METRO Chief Executive told GT: "METRO is delighted to receive this funding from the City Bridge Trust.

The findings from our Youth Chances research and the demand on our existing mental health programme show just how vital this funding is to enable us to support so many more Lesbian, Gay, Bisexual, Transgender and Questioning (LGBTQ) young people across London. This investment from the City Bridge Trust gives LGBTQ young people direct access to the essential services when they need them and will save lives."

London Bridge - council meets rail bosses

THE council is demanding urgent action from Network Rail to end the ongoing misery for commuters after a catalogue of chaos and disruption at London Bridge.

The council has been inundated on with complaints about the service as redevelopment work goes. It is setting up an urgent meeting with Network Rail bosses to demand a rethink of how the project is being managed, and for better communications so that passengers are not left in the dark about delays and cancellations.

Cllr Danny Thorpe, the council's cabinet member for regeneration and transport, said: "The situation at London Bridge would appear to be pretty much out of control. Thousands of our residents and businesses depend on the rail network to go about their daily business and the ongoing delays and cancellations are causing misery. Enough is enough. We have worked closely with Network Rail to improve communications to passengers but much, much more is needed. "The whole project is causing such adverse effects on people's lives that we believe a renewed approach to managing this complex project, with appropriate compensation for those affected, is needed. The project is not scheduled for completion until summer 2018 and it is inconceivable that the current situation can continue without a drastic rethink and a communications system introduced that allows people to make plans with confidence.

"Local people are rightly outraged at the current situation and we are determined to call Network Rail to account on their behalf and push for immediate improvements so that we can have clarity and confidence that the current chaos is being addressed."

Wednesday sessions using the unique concept of 'Reminiscence Art' - a creative process of sparking memories - as well as other activities, from sing-a-longs to crafting and sculpture.

Age Exchange already runs two hugely successful support groups for local carers and the launch of Caring Together means the Age Exchange can support a whole new group of people.

Funded by the City Bridge Trust charity, Caring Together is the first initiative of its kind in London.

Age Exchange chief executive Rebecca Packwood told GT: "This targeted one-to-one support provides advice for carers, so they can continue to support their loved ones. Older carers may also have health needs themselves - which is why a group like this is so important for Greenwich."

Royal visits Greenwich smart city

vehicles in urban environments. The event came as the Princess Royal was attending a conference hosted by Royal Greenwich for CSELeaders, a global leadership programme for a hundred exceptional senior leaders chosen each year from government and businesses from the 53 Commonwealth countries. Princess Anne is patron of the group, and was there as a participant.

The theme of the conference was 'What makes a city smart'. She met civic leaders from Royal Greenwich and the hi-tech businesses that have set up in Mitre Passage, and she was told about the work going on in Greenwich to develop smart city innovation.

Other CSELeaders were also given rides in the shuttle in Peninsula Square during their visit, with the O2 as the backdrop.

Council leader Denise Hyland said: "The technology sector is really important for us here in Greenwich and we know that a project like the Meridian Shuttle is attracting global interest and will bring new jobs to the area."

"New companies involved in this and other so-called 'Smart City' technologies are already moving their business to Greenwich and we know more will follow. We already have more than 1,000 technology businesses based in the borough, and as this sector grows it will help to further strengthen the local economy."

The borough is the local authority partner in the GATEway project, which stands for 'Greenwich Automated Transport Environment'.

ROYAL STROLL: Council leader Denise Hyland and John Heraghty - Scotland Director, Common Purpose, who helped coordinate the conference programme and study tour, escort the Princess WOODLANDS Farm is just one royal borough open space where you can spot birds and wildlife.

The Greenwich Peninsula Ecology Park and the River Thames itself is home to a range of different birds, including nesting Common Terns as well as songbirds such as Wrens and Blue Tits.

Other wildlife regularly seen include newts and a huge array of 'minibeasts'. In spring and summer the Park comes alive with brightly coloured dragonflies and damselflies, and look out for butterflies over the meadow areas.

Another great place to check out is Kidbrooke's Sutcliffe Park, which is home to Willow and Sedge Warblers singing in the summer. Visitors might even be lucky enough to see a Kingfisher, which are increasing in numbers across London thanks to cleaner rivers and waterways.

Joanne Smith, senior warden at Greenwich Peninsula Ecology Park, also sits on the GWAG - Greenwich Wildlife Advisory Group, a voluntary group which is concerned with nature conservation. She said: "The Ecology Park is a great place to watch birds in the spring with the nesting season in full swing. Summer migrants such as Common Terns and Reed Warblers have returned to us from Africa and are noisily claiming their nesting territories. Soon, Swifts, House Martins and Sand Martins will follow, swooping over the park lakes to catch insects."

GT correction

Apologies – a recent article on improvements to Eltham High Street ("Cash boost for Eltham High Street" March 24) contained some typing errors so we want to clarify the main points of the article.

Funds have been awarded to the Royal Borough for a major scheme to improve Eltham High Street. It's expected that the whole project, which will improve the appearance of the High Street and the movement of people and traffic, will cost around £5million. The initial consultation and design phase is expected to cost around £400,000.

Outdoor pursuits help you explore local wildlife

WITH all the signs of spring upon us there has never been a better time to get out-and-about and explore the wonderful wildlife in the royal borough, writes Dan Stephens. And why not start with a guided bird-watching walk at the wonderful Woodlands Farm in Shooters Hill?

There are two walks coming up for bird watchers and nature lovers. If you're an early riser you can join the dawn chorus walk starting at 5.30am on Sunday (April 26). It is an early start but as this is often a great time to see and hear exciting woodland species, it is well worth setting the alarm clock for.

The late spring walk takes place on Sunday, May 10 from 9.30am and also promises to be an exciting and interesting experience, and a great opportunity to see dozens of great wildlife species including Blue Tits (main pic), House Sparrows (pictured far left) and Robins. Both walks cost £2 per person and £1 for children under 18 (not suitable for children of a very young age). Members and volunteers can come along for free. You are encouraged to wear sturdy footwear and the meeting point is the farmyard by the second building on the left.

BUZZY MAN: beekeeper John Large prepares for the beekeeping course and open days at Oxleas Wood apiary

The apiary is self-sustaining producing seasonal honey and other hive products. John keeps ruthlessly clear of biological products with his 'chemical-free, bio-technical approach'.

John offers a number of honeybee activities from apiary 'taster' days, for the purely inquisitive - "it's a nice gift for a loved one" - to a comprehensive, Beekeeping Course, spread over eight evenings of May and June. "Managing a colony of bees is a significant commitment that requires not only the basics but also solid training including practical handling of bees," John added. The course covers the basic theory and equipment required, the life cycle of the honeybee, seasonal requirements and concludes with a session on pest controls and preparing for winter.

Apiary taster days are scheduled for May 16 and 17 and June 20 and 21 while the Beekeeping Course starts on April 25. "I'm just happy to pass on my knowledge," added John.

"I've been a nuclear scientist for 40 odd years but I haven't yet fathomed the bee," John admitted.

And he stresses that we all have a role to help protect this key insect; from buying solitary bee houses - not all bees live in colonies - planting bee friendly from hollyhocks and lupins to blue bells and borage - flowers, to attending beekeeping courses like these.

Gallipoli ceremony remembers war dead

SATURDAY (April 25) marks the 100th anniversary of the First World War landings at Gallipoli in Turkey, where 143,750 allied soldiers died and at least 85,000 Turkish soldiers lost their lives. The event will be marked by a poignant ceremony at the Gallipoli Chapel in Eltham's Holy Trinity Church, the only one of its kind in the world to be dedicated to the campaign. It has been used for an annual Gallipoli memorial service every year since 1921, and a fund was launched by the congregation to refurbish it for the campaign's centenary this year. The service will start at 2pm, and will be attended by Army Reserve Units who have direct links with the British Army's 29th Division which fought at Gallipoli. Sea Cadets, Army Cadets, and the Air Cadets from South East London will also be there.

Celebrating 'V for victory'

by Dick Townsend-Smith

IT'S 70 years since these locals partied in the streets, their faces running with tears of joy and happiness.

Whole communities turned out to sing and dance to celebrate VE Day – marking victory in Europe after six years of the Second World War. These photos from the Greenwich Heritage Centre in Artillery Square at the Royal Arsenal in Woolwich capture the atmosphere of the time.

Friday, 8 May this year will see the 70th anniversary of the end of hostilities and the defeat of the Nazi regime. Many millions of people throughout Europe had lost their lives, and many more suffered life-changing injuries.

● If you are planning a street party to relive the VE Day celebrations, let Greenwich Time know, and we will try to give it a mention. Email the details to greenwichtime@outlook.com or phone 020 8921 5916.

Len's lunch bunch

by Ronnie Woods

GREENWICH pensioner Leonard Pearce was the talk of the Chatterbox lunch club when he celebrated his 100th birthday last month.

He's been a member of the Plumstead club for 10 years and lunch with his pals was the only way to celebrate his milestone birthday.

Born on March 14 1914, Leonard started working for his father's firm when he was 18 and married his wife Mary Elizabeth

“ She could have sent me a few £100 if she liked ” when he was 21. He joined the army and served in the Second World War under Air Defence Great Britain and after the war received 2 medals for his service.

Chatterbox was formed in 1985 and is part of Trinity Methodist Church at 265 Burrage Road in Plumstead. The club hosts many activities alongside the lunch club including Tryangle, a pioneering project set up to set up to resolve domestic violence conflicts in 2004.

Treasurer Alan Beacher said: “We enjoyed a big meal with sparkling grape juice and a cake. Members clubbed together and got him a new jumper and some socks and we read out all his birthday cards including one from the Queen. We also sung happy birthday and gave him three cheers and look forward to next year's birthday.”

Leonard was very grateful for his presents and on the subject of the Queen's birthday card joked: “She could have sent me a few £100 if she liked!”

Leonard is supported by his two granddaughters and grandson Daniel who visit him several times a week but his lunches at Chatterbox are the only time he gets to go out and meet people.

Alan added: “Leonard has always been a very active man until recently and used to come here from Charlton under his own steam.”

For Leonard and other pensioners in and around the area, Alan says that Chatterbox is a meeting place for them as it gives them “a little purpose in life as they get active, get out, get a cooked meal cooked, can talk to one another and if they have any other problems they can get advice from the staff here.”

● Chatterbox is on Mondays and Wednesdays at the Trinity Methodist Church in Plumstead. For more details and meals booked in advance, you can call 020 8854 2385.

ROYAL borough of
GREENWICH

The Fund finder

THE borough's many voluntary and community organisations are committed to helping others. But sometimes they need a bit of help themselves, particularly when it comes to finding new funding for their projects. That's where Greenwich Action for Voluntary Service (GAVS) can help. Greenwich Time finds out more...

GREENWICH Action for Voluntary Service (GAVS) is based at Equitable House in Woolwich, and has a mission to provide strategic leadership to help the borough's voluntary, community and faith sectors grow and prosper. It also helps the different organisations get their voice heard.

Whether the organisation is recently-launched and still finding its feet, long-established and wanting to grow, or just starting up and not knowing what to do next, GAVS can help. Chief executive Naomi Goldberg (pictured) explains:

"We are here to support all groups big or small so that they can grow and develop," she said. "Our highest area of demand is around fundraising where we often have to help groups that are really passionate about the services they want to provide but don't have the expertise in this area."

"A lot of groups need our support to get their organisation up to scratch so that they meet funders' requirements. We also help with writing funding bids which is an art in itself."

● Find out more about how GAVS can help your organisation at www.greenwich-cvs.org.uk or call 020 8309 8231.

GAVS

Greenwich Action for Voluntary Service

GRANTS of between £500 and £3,000 are available to help fund community projects in the borough.

A local panel of reps from GAVS, the council and the community will be set up shortly to decide which projects should get support.

Projects operating in the borough are eligible providing:

- The group has a constitution or is registered as a charity
- It has a bank account or will be using the bank account of another organisation
- The project meets one or more of the funding priorities, which are supporting new and emerging communities to access services, reducing social isolation, supporting people with specific disabilities or supporting people to understand their rights under the Care Act.
- To apply go to the News section on the GAVS website at www.greenwich-cvs.org.uk and complete an application form by June 30.

WORLD of Hope is a local charity that aims to deter young people from getting involved with crime, and also promotes family unity.

It is based at The Pavilion in Bostal Gardens, Abbey Wood, and has been readily supported by GAVS.

Florence Emkapose, its founder and chief executive, said: "We go out on to the street and engage with young people, talking to them, and encouraging them to come to our youth Pavilion to... "We hold every August families, and can learn promote in coming to events for their achievements those going first time, with gifts... "GAVS,

Giving support with a smile

AFRICAN Smile is an organisation based at Comedale Road, Greenwich, which has been supported by GAVS and helps young people and adults from the African community to integrate into British society. The charity provides classes that coach children of different ages with their homework and improve their skills in maths, English, music and French.

GAVS supported African Smile with a grant proposal to the Foyle Foundation and it was successful in getting funding to continue with its school classes for a whole year.

Patrick Rukengwa, one of its workers, said: "We also support adults helping them with their CVs and in finding work. We have contacts with different organisations who need skills and who are willing to take our people for work placements. Some of them then go on to get permanent jobs."

THE South London Special League, launched in 2004, is a unique, award-winning registered charity that provides opportunities for disabled people in South London, male and female, to improve their lives by taking part regularly in competitive sport.

It means disabled players can increase their opportunities to meet new people, socialise, and gain new experiences. All of these contribute towards their improved health and well-being, physical fitness, heightened self-esteem, raised aspirations and their overall happiness.

The League is managed by Sharon Brokenshire MBE, and has received many awards for excellence that demonstrate the level of commitment of members of staff and the management committee. Sharon said: "We got £260,000 from the Big Lottery Fund for our core funding, and it was the support and advice from GAVS that helped me write the bid, and win it."

"GAVS also advised and supported me getting £69,000 from Children In Need to fund the Greenwich Powerchair Football League for three years. They also help with book-keeping and accountancy."

"They are a great organisation, and without them we would not be here. They are always helpful and they spend a lot of time with us and they use their expertise in fundraising and financial management to help charities like mine that haven't got the expertise. They are absolutely brilliant."

Calling all aboard for riverside festival

ROYAL
FESTIVALS

ONE of France's most highly regarded street theatre companies sets the scene for the opening night of this year's Greenwich and Docklands International Festival.

The annual outdoor festival of arts and street theatre is in June and forms part of the Royal Greenwich Festivals - a summer long fiesta of performing arts backed by the royal borough.

Rarely seen in this country, Compagnie Oposito are famed for their virtuosic approach to processional performance. For GDIF's opening night they will present the UK premiere of "Kori Kori", featuring a chorus of actors and musicians carrying chairs.

The chorus of 18 actors and three musicians will lead audiences on an uplifting theatrical journey through Greenwich accompanied by an energising musical score.

Unlike previous festival opening nights, "Kori Kori" will be presented in daylight with the simplest of staging, to create a stripped back, yet emotionally compelling experience.

The 10-day riverside festival continues with outdoor performances in streets, parks and public spaces across royal Greenwich.

Full details at www.festival.org

June also sees the launch of the Greenwich Music Festival which also comes under the Royal Greenwich Festivals umbrella.

The programme has been designed so that both professional and aspiring musicians can perform together. Audiences will be treated to free town centre concerts covering music from all cultures and genres with the Greenwich World Cultural Festival returning to Eltham Palace as a highlight on July 12.

Further details at www.greenwichdance.org.uk

THE nationally acclaimed Greenwich and Lewisham Young People's Theatre (GLYPT's) announced an exciting season of events with its first ever official programme launch last Wednesday (April 15).

The Woolwich-based theatre and dance company invited funders, schools and theatre colleagues to the launch of a new season of events and performances for young people, families and school audiences.

Planned events represent its biggest participatory programme in its 40-year history and include great opportunities for all ages throughout the range of dance, music and theatre productions in the pipeline.

Highlights running from now until the end of the year include shows, workshops for schools and the public, supportive projects, holiday activities and community participation projects.

GLYPT will be working closely with the local community to devise the first ever Woolwich Carnival which will see the streets of Woolwich come alive with music, dance and costumes this September. The exciting array of dance and drama also includes the European Theatre Café in Woolwich, a special two-day festival based on six contemporary European plays - ideal for GCSE and A Level drama students.

The May half term holiday is centred around the Greenwich Children's Theatre Festival 2015 taking place May 23-31 in partnership with Greenwich Theatre and the royal borough. Featuring as part of the Royal Greenwich Festivals, it's an ideal event for families, involving a week of exciting family shows at

Thursdays 12-3pm, The Tramshed,

Dan Stephens learns more about a new programme of events and performances for all ages at Greenwich and Lewisham Young People's Theatre

A new stage

the Tramshed in Woolwich and other venues.

Shakespeare's A Midsummer Night's Dream and Henry V will also get the GLYPT treatment in the coming months when theatre group Merely Players presents an open and audience-focused approach to two Shakespearean classics in an event ideal for students in years 9-12.

Other highlights of GLYPT's upcoming programme include AirQuarium, presented by Beautiful Creatures, an indoor version of their hugely acclaimed outdoor theatre show which takes audiences on a poignant journey to the bottom of the ocean in an immersive show featuring two strange scientists and lifelike puppets.

As always, GLYPT closes the year with one of its spectacular Christmas productions. Coming from the same team which brought us Robin Hood and Treasure Island, GLYPT presents Beauty and the Beast throughout December.

Scott Ellis is artistic director of The Merely Players which brought a small cast to perform an extract of A Midsummers Night's Dream at last Wednesday's launch event.

Scott told GT: "It's so inspiring to be in a building so committed to making sure theatre belongs to everyone, because it's a belief we passionately share. We are so excited that our plays can be part of this new season. We loved hearing from the young people whose own relationship with theatre was begun and nurtured here, and we hope we can get involved and do the same with Shakespeare."

To get a copy of GLYPT's new brochure with info of all the upcoming programmes please contact 0208 854 1316, email info@glypt.co.uk or download a copy from www.glypt.co.uk

Royal Borough of Greenwich's Choice Based Lettings Scheme

Edition 439

BIDDING FOR PROPERTIES

People on the Housing register are able to bid for all properties, regardless of their banding. You must be eligible for the size of property and bids will be considered in the following order:

First Band A, followed by Band B both in priority date order.

Those in Band C will then be considered in registration date order.

Please note that there will still be some properties with age restrictions so only people of this age group can apply for these.

BAND

- A is for applicants in unsatisfactory housing, including people moving due to demolition and those underoccupying their homes.
- B is for applicants the Royal Borough of Greenwich must prioritise according to the law, particularly homeless people, and others with an urgent need to move for medical or welfare reasons.
- C is for all applicants on the housing register, including those that are in priority bands A and B.

How do I apply?

Get on the list

First, you've got to be on the housing waiting list to join the scheme. If you're not, register an application on line at www.royalgreenwich.gov.uk

Find your applicant number

It will be on the letter you've already had from the Royal Borough of Greenwich about the new scheme. You'll need that number and the reference number of the property you're after, which will be on the advert.

Pick out your ideal property

by looking in Greenwich Time or regularly checking the website:

www.royalgreenwich.gov.uk/homes

Click on your preference on the website. If you don't have a computer, you can always use one for free at either The Eltham or Woolwich Centre or a local library.

Apply in one of three ways

- Text bidding is now available and the number to use is 07786207913. For further information please see page 2, or
- Phone the 24-hour hotline 020 8921 4340. It's an automatic push-button system and calls will be charged at the normal local rate, or
- Via the Royal Borough of Greenwich's website www.royalgreenwich.gov.uk/homes

The next edition of GreenwichHomes will be available on Wednesday 29 April 2015 at midday. Closing date for all applications for this issue is midnight on Sunday 26 April 2015.

Royal Borough of Greenwich's Choice Based Lettings Scheme

IMPORTANT POLICY INFORMATION FOR THOSE AWARDED PRIORITY

When a priority is awarded, you will receive one offer of accommodation.

The following rules are used to allocate properties to applicants in Bands A, B and C, to make sure the Council makes best use of housing stock to meet needs.

- Two children (whatever gender) under 10 years old can share a bedroom
- Two children (same gender) under 16 years old can share a bedroom
- Two children of opposite gender where at least one is 10 years old or over need a bedroom each
- Each person over 16 years old needs their own bedroom
- A couple and lone parents need one bedroom
- Expected babies are counted as a person from the six month of pregnancy
- Band C applicants - Houses are allocated to a household with children (aged 15 or under)

Only RBG tenants who currently occupy houses in bands A and B, will be considered for rehousing to another house. All other priority applicants will be considered for flats or maisonettes.

Note: There are separate Allocations Policies for applicants with priority from regeneration areas.

Like for Like Moves

Council tenants housed through priority Bands A & B, are generally offered a similar type of property to that they currently occupy, of the size they require. This is because rehousing is being offered to meet safety or other needs, rather than to provide more desirable housing. Tenants, who want to move to improve the quality of their accommodation, must do so through Band C, where applicants are housed in date order.

For full details on our policies, please see the Allocations Scheme which is available on the Royal Borough of Greenwich website

Queen's House to close in July for refurbishment

LEADING Greenwich tourist attraction the Queen's House in Romney Road is to close for a year, from Monday July 27. It is being given a 12-month refurbishment so it can reopen in time for its 400th anniversary in July next year. Royal Museums Greenwich will be introducing new displays, colour schemes and bespoke lighting.

The window-glazing and flooring of the Grade I listed building will also be upgraded, improving both the external and internal appearance of the House. And the ceiling in the King's Presence Chamber will be restored to its royal splendour, complementing the Queen's Presence Chamber which was restored in 2013.

Designed by Inigo Jones in 1616 for the wife of James I, Anne of Denmark, the Queen's House was the first classical building in the country and is an acknowledged masterpiece of 17th-century architecture.

achieve their best. Awards include five 'Ambassador' level grants which carry a financial contribution and two further funding grants throughout the year. In addition 100m sprinter David Bolarinwa Paralympian bronze medalist swimmer Susie Rodgers and international class fencer Jonathan Webb also received ambassador status.

A further 29 young athletes receive a combination of financial support and training memberships as well as admission to a sports science programme to further their sporting careers with 42 receiving the training and sports science support only.

Support from last year helped Zachw to progress as an international junior and achieve an early ambition joining a French pro under 21s team - BCM Gravelines.

He told GT: "Starting Blocks supported me for the first year of funding. It helped me push forward with getting stronger in the gym - I needed to bulk up to move up the age group. It helped me with my ambition of leaving the country at a young age to play basketball in a European league as the technical and tactical aspects of the game are of a much higher level. I start every day with a weightlifting session, followed by core strengthening. It's a very scheduled routine."

Coming home for the awards was also a chance for Zach to catch up with his number one fan - his mum Kirsty.

"I've been preparing to move away from home from a young age - I'm used to it. At times it can be difficult but it's part of your goals, it's about sacrifice. It's really nice to come home though - always a blessing," he told GT.

Peter Bunday Chair of Greenwich Starting Blocks said: "We exist to support athletes on their sporting journey and I'm delighted that this year we are in a position to help even more talented young people. We have seen what the help and support of our organisation can bring and I know these awards will lead to further success at a regional, national and international level. We all look forward to seeing our young stars in action."

Young athletes receive support awards

BASKETBALL player Zachariah Noble travelled all the way from France to pick up his Starting Blocks award for 2015.

The 22-year-old took a short break from training with BCM Graveline, a pro basketball team in France to come to the Woolwich town hall presentation ceremony last Wednesday.

Starting Blocks supports up and coming athletes across the borough and was launched to help aspiring athletes with the costs of training, travel and equipment as well as the cost of competing at home and abroad.

Since it began in 2007 the trust has raised more than £220,000 backing 414 athletes who have gone on to win 321 awards at home and internationally.

This year its fundraising programme is supporting over 70 local athletes to
